Dear Carol,

If there was any doubt that Mobilians care deeply about Barton Academy, it was surely erased last week when hundreds of supporters showed up for a Preservation Week event. The photograph will be submitted to the National Trust for Historic Preservation's "This Place Matters" campaign, which we hope will focus attention on one of Alabama's most significant historic buildings.

Many thanks to the City of Mobile for providing the man lift, to intrepid photographer Tad Denson for scaling the heights to snap the photo, to Pepsi for providing drinks and to Mobile Gas for grilling hot dogs for those who spent their lunch hour for a good cause!

We will be selling large format prints of the photo to raise money for Barton's restoration. A 16" x 20" print will be available for $40, which covers the cost of the print and a $25 donation to Barton. A 12" x 18" print will be $35, with the same $25 going to the restoration effort.

Development Buzz

Even though, or perhaps especially because, economic activity has slowed in recent months, the folks at the Chamber of Commerce are busier than ever and may soon outgrow their current office space. The Mobile Area Chamber of Commerce recently purchased a nearby 5,000 square foot building at 456 Civic Center Drive to prepare for future expansion. Most recently the building held the offices of Trinova engineering firm, but many of you may remember it as the popular night spot Trinity's.

In other development news:

- The Red Square Agency is also looking to the future with an eye toward expansion. The advertising agency recently purchased a parking lot at the corner of Conti and Conception Streets. For the short term, the lot will handle the parking needs of the growing company, and whatever the long term plans are...we're sure they will be innovative and edgy!
- The building at 354 St. Francis Street is being demolished to make way for a new development featuring seven upscale apartments. The developers of the project are local.
- It takes a while to fill 500,000 square feet of office space, but the RSA tower is getting close to being leased out. The law firm of Burr & Forman LLP, currently located in west Mobile, has leased an entire floor and plans to move in by the end of the year.
- Another law firm, Delashmet & Marchand, has moved into a newly renovated building in the 400 block of Dauphin Street. You'll see a bar when you enter the offices...a vestige of the building's former life as a night club.

Retail Happenings

Shopping, Dining and Entertainment News

Can we really save the economy three stores at a time? A new organization believes we can and has created a cyber-campaign to spread the word. Organizers of the 3/50 project point out that for every $100 you spend with a local, independent retailer, $68 returns to our local economy. If you spend with a national chain, only $43 stays here and if you buy on-line, nothing is generated locally. Independent retailers and restaurateurs have always set downtowns apart from the monotony of the 'burbs...we would all be worse off if they began to disappear. Visit the 3/50 project web site below to learn how to get involved.

the 3/50 project

In other retail news:

- HopJack's, the popular Pensacola tap room and pizza kitchen, is nearly finished with renovations to the old Picklefish building and plans to open in the next two weeks. More good news for fans of stronger brews...the Alabama legislature has passed the "Free the Hops" bill that allows beer and wine with higher alcohol content to be sold in the state. The bill now awaits the governor's signature.
- Be sure to check out Serda's Coffee Company on Monday evenings as they expand from gourmet coffees and gelato to fine wines. Serda's has teamed up with one of the most knowledgeable wine enthusiasts in Mobile, Mike Gibson from Red or White, to bring you Monday night wine tastings each Monday at 6pm.

Dunbar Murals Transform Mundane Hallways

Sometimes downtown redevelopment happens in broad strokes...take for instance the renovation of the Battle House Hotel...but sometimes it happens with the smallest of brushes. Noted Mobile artist Walter Simon (on the right) has been working with students at Dunbar Middle School to transform mind-numbing concrete block walls into a visually stimulating environment.

7th grader Kaleb Allen (on the left) has been working on this large scale painting in an exterior hallway that depicts classmates as jazz musicians. "It's been a great project," Kaleb says. "And I found something that I really love." Oh, that we could all be so lucky!

Bulletproof Mobile

Mayor Sam Jones, in conjunction with the Mobile Police Department, has launched a new initiative to end illicit gun possession and use, primarily among youths. The program, titled Bulletproof Mobile, is designed to encourage citizens to report illicit guns and their use. Citizens who have information regarding the illegal firing of a weapon within the Mobile Police jurisdiction or the location of an illicit gun are urged to anonymously report the information to Mobile Area CrimeStoppers at 208-7000.

Details, which result in an arrest or the acquisition of an illicit firearm, will result in a $100 reward. According to Mayor Jones, the goal of Bulletproof Mobile is simple. "What we're trying to do is save lives," he says. For more information regarding Bulletproof Mobile, contact the Mobile Police Department's Crime Prevention Unit at 208-1924.

Upcoming Breakfast Briefings Explore Diverse Topics of Interest

Breakfast Briefings - May 28th and June 9th

If you want to be "in the know" about what's happening in our community, you won't want to miss two upcoming Breakfast Briefings. The first, on May 28th, features an inside look into the new ship now dubbed "a pirate's worst nightmare," the USS Independence. The littoral combat ship is being built right here in Mobile at the Austal Shipyard. Hear from her commanding officer who will explain Mobile's vital role in the Navy's combat missions.

The second Breakfast Briefing, on June 9th, is being offered in response to our on-going survey, which indicated that many of you want to learn more about "green" living. Former mayor Mike Dow, whose latest endeavor involves making homes and commercial buildings more energy efficient through technology, will explain how new systems are helping commercial and residential properties better manage energy usage and costs.

Both briefings begin at 8:00 a.m. at the Downtown Mobile Alliance office at 261 Dauphin Street. Since a light breakfast will be served, reservations are suggested. Contact Jo Ann Olivera at jolivera@downtownmobile.org or 251-434-8498.

The Market on the Square is Growing!

Due to the increased number of vendors participating at the Market on the Square each week, the Market is expanding to utilize both the north and south sides of Cathedral Square. From fruits and vegetable growers to bakers and craftspeople, space needs have increased to include these local vendors. Newer additions this year include locally raised beef vendor Irvington Cattle Company; Bush's Blueberry Farm; and The Explorem and Bellingrath Gardens tents.

The last Saturday of each month also warrants more space as the Mobile Arts Council co-sponsors the first Art Market on the Square. Artisans and craftspeople are encouraged to pick up guidelines and applications from the Arts Council offices on Cathedral Square or online at www.mobilearts.org. The Art Market will local craftspeople a venue to sell their work as a value added piece to the market once a month.

Space is limited.

With the arrival of USDA and Farmers' Market Authority vouchers for low-income senior citizens on May 23rd, we must make the flow of the market smoother for the shoppers, as well.

Royal Goes Red for Women

Heart disease and stroke are the greatest health threats faced by women, but only 21 percent of American women realize it. That's not good enough for some of the businesses on Royal Street, who are trying to increase awareness with a campaign that decks out buildings in red banners. Led by Lyons, Pipes & Cook and Hargrove and Associates, business are invited to show their support for the American Heart Association's Go Red for Women Luncheon on Tuesday, June 2nd at the Battle House Hotel.

If you'd like more information about the luncheon, call Jennifer McMullen at the American Heart Association at 251-461-4004. If you'd like to purchase some banners and join the "Royal Goes Red for Women" effort, contact David Constantine at david@lpclaw.com.

Last Chance to Tell Us What You Think

The Downtown Mobile Alliance has been conducting an on-line survey this month and has already received some very interesting results. If you have not already done so, and would like to help shape the planning process for Downtown Mobile, please take a few minutes to take the survey. The anonymous survey will close at the end of the month and truly provides us with extremely valuable information. Though it might be nice to be able to read your minds, as it is, you'll have to tell us what you're thinking if you want us to know.
